Resveratrol 100 by Source Naturals Resists Free Radicals and More

One of the most potent antioxidants on the market today is known as resveratrol. This herb is from the Japanese knotweed, also known as Polygonum cuspidatum. This antioxidant strengthens, protects, and clears the body of free radicals and promotes cellular communication. Source Naturals Resveratrol 100 provides 100 mg of pure natural trans-resveratrol. This product is known to support tissues of the breast, prostate, and endometrial along with cholesterol and inflammation. The catechin's found in resveratrol has much research that shows it can help reduce cancer development in the body. Resveratrol can help restore ones white blood cell life cycle as well. This antioxidant can help restore cells that contain damaged DNA preventing them from developing into various types of cancer. Also, research has demonstrated that it can prevent estrogen from triggering breast cells which may help reduce breast cancer in women. Resveratrol promotes healthy circulation by relaxing the blood vessels, which in turn prevents blood clot formations and coronary artery disease. This is a great antioxidant that is beneficial to protecting our bodies and promoting optimal health. Choose Source Naturals resveratrol as your source for all your nutritional needs.
